

FutureCorps

Long Island students making a difference

See more community programs at alticeconnects.com

Mills Pond Cares

The Mills Pond Cares Club, made up of fourth graders from Mills Pond Elementary School, recently gave back to the community of St. James with a "Boot Camp for Crohn's" fundraising event. To help raise money for the Crohn's & Colitis Foundation of America, students participated in a boot camp-style exercise circuit for this worthwhile charity. Different groups took turns visiting eight different "work-out" stations to exercise different muscle groups, and between each station, the children also performed 3-minutes of cardio exercises.

Diane Lanze, Melissa Taylor and Kristin Quail, the Cares Club advisers, really enjoy seeing the children rise to the challenge with the various community service activities of the Club.

"The kids did an amazing job at each "Boot Camp for Crohn's" station and had a great time exercising with their teachers while raising money for such a great charity! We as teachers are so proud of the students for exhibiting qualities of outstanding citizenship and leadership!" said Ms. Lanze.

FutureCorps
is now part of Altice Connects

FutureCorps projects presented in Newsday thanks to NEFCU.

Q. Where can I learn more about home buying?

Join us for this informative seminar where you will learn valuable information about the home buying and mortgage process from industry experts.

FREE Homebuyers Seminar

Saturday, April 1, 2017 10:00 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.

Hofstra University Club - 225 Hofstra Boulevard, Hempstead, NY

Seating is limited - register online at: www.myNEFCU.org

NMLS ID # 543667